Section 6. SMALL NECESSITIES LEAVE

Amended:
ATM 2000

MGL 149, 52D became effective on August 4, 1998 and requires employers with more than 50 employees to provide eligible employees 24 hours of unpaid leave time per year to accomplish certain activities with their children and elderly relatives. Eligible employees may take this "small necessities" leave in addition to the 12-week unpaid leave permitted under the Family and Medical Leave Act.

Eligible employees are those who have worked for their employer for at least one year and for 1,250 hours during the year preceding their scheduled "small necessities" leave.

The following activities qualify for "small necessities" leave:

- a. Participation in school activities directly related to the educational advancement of the employee's child (whether at public or private, primary or secondary schools, Head-Start programs or child-care facilities).
- b. Accompanying the employee's child to a routine medical or dental appointment such as a check-up or vaccination.
- c. Accompanying an elderly relative (one who is over 60 years of age and is related to the employee by blood or marriage) to routine medical or dental appointments.
- d. Employee appointments for professional services related to elder care, such as interviewing nursing or group homes.

If the need for leave time is foreseeable, the employee must provide at least seven days' notice. If it is unforeseeable, the employee should provide as much notice as is practicable.

Although the statute provides that "small necessities" leave is to be unpaid, employees may elect, or employers may require, that accrued vacation, personal, medical, or sick leave be used. Employers may require a "certification" from the employee substantiating the employee's need for the leave time.

All eligible employees, as defined by the FMLA will be entitled to 12 work weeks of unpaid leave in any 12 month period for the following reasons:

- a. Because of the birth, adoption or placement in foster care of a son or daughter;
- b. In order to care for a seriously ill spouse or partner, son, daughter or parent;
- c. Because of a serious condition that disables the employee from performing the functions of the employee's position. A son or daughter includes a biological, adopted, foster child, stepchild, legal ward, or child of a person standing as a parent, which is under 18 years of age or over 18 years of age and incapable of self-care because of a mental or physical disability. Entitlement to leave under ¶ a. above expires one year after the birth or placement of the son or daughter and cannot generally be taken on an intermittent or reduced leave basis. Leave to care for a seriously ill family member or because of an employee's own illness, may be taken intermittently or on a shorter work schedule, as the employee requests, and when medically necessary.

On return from FMLA leave, an employee is entitled to be returned to the same position the employee held when the leave commenced, or to an equivalent position with equivalent benefits, pay, and other terms and conditions of employment. An employee is entitled to such reinstatement even if the employee has been replaced or his or her position has been restructured to accommodate the employee's absence. An equivalent position is one that is virtually identical to the employee's former position in terms of pay, benefits and working conditions, including privileges, perquisites and status. It must involve the same or substantially similar duties and responsibilities, which must entail substantially equivalent skill, effort, responsibility, and authority. If an employee is no longer qualified for the position because of the employee's inability to attend a necessary course, renew a license, etc., as a result of the leave, the employee must be given a reasonable opportunity to fulfill those conditions upon return to work.

Such family and medical leave shall not affect the employee's right to receive vacation time, sick leave, bonuses, benefits, plans or programs for which the employee was eligible at the date of the leave, and any other advantages or rights of the employee's employment position; provided, however, that such family and medical leave shall not be included, when applicable, in the computation of such benefits, rights, and advantages. The Board of Selectmen may require that the employee use any or all vacation, sick, or personal leave.
